Margery Susan Yougel Werb

APR 18, 1938 - MAR 30, 2023

Margery Susan Yougel Werb (also known as Marsue and Margi), 84, beloved mother and grandmother, passed away on March 30th in Tampa, FL. Born in Bellefonte, PA, on April 18, 1938, to parents Margery Way Yougel and Albert E. Yougel, Marsue spent most of her childhood in State College, PA. She attended school there through her junior year before graduating from Midland Senior High School in Michigan in 1956. Marsue graduated from the Robert Morris Business School in Pittsburgh, PA, and later attended Penn State where she met her husband, Don F. Werb. They married in the Catholic church and raised a family of three girls in Maple Glen, PA.

Music was very important to Margi and she shared this passion throughout her life by teaching elementary school music and singing in church choirs, as well as Sweet Adeline's a cappella group. The family moved to Florida in 1981 where she worked in various administrative positions while continuing to focus on her family. Margi's devotion was evident to all as she supported her daughters in their many academic and athletic pursuits. After 23 years in West Palm Beach, and upon her husband Don's death, she moved to The Villages in Lady Lake, FL, where she remained active in her community with the Penn State Club, church choir, karaoke, and volunteering with school-aged children. In her later years, she enjoyed dancing and traveling with her companion, Walter Kates. Margi remained very close with childhood friends and often returned to her beloved State College to visit them and savor her favorite season, fall, in Happy Valley. Her last two years were spent in Lutz, FL, to be near family in Tampa.

Preceded in death by sisters Ginny Harter and Bertie Evans, Margi is survived by three daughters: Wendy Hope Werb (Mark W. Klingensmith) of Sewall's Point, Susan Faith Werb of Stuart, and Heather Marie Werb (Greg Shafer) of Tampa. She is also survived by grandchildren Sandra Faith Werb, Hope Marline Klingensmith, John Mark Klingensmith, Drew Alan Werb Shafer and Grace Marie Werb Shafer, as well as her brother Al Yougel of Peachtree City, GA. Margi will be deeply

SAYING GOODBYE by Heather Werb
Sitting in the dark at 1:00 a.m. beside you in the hospital. I realize this is probably the last time that I will ever be able to listen to you sleep, To listen to you breathe, to be able to gaze upon you longer than I probably ever have. I take your hand in mine under the covers, Trying to make a connection, send you a signal That I am here for you, with you, beside you. I think about all the times you must have done the same for me When I was a baby in your arms or just a young child after you sang me a lullaby. You watched over me as I watch over you now. You took care of me always with a gentle hug or a loving smile. While I might not have always remembered those moments, My heart always has which is what keeps me next to you now. In this moment I want you to know what an incredible mother you have been to me And how much of who I am I owe to you. You have always encouraged me, loved me, and been there for me, Never telling me what I've done wrong or what I should do better. I could only hope that one day my children can say the same about me. Please know that, even when you are gone, my heart and mind will always be filled with you. I hope that wherever you go beyond this physical world You will be free to once again dance with joy and sing with abandon, Unshackled by bodily limitations, never to be held back by human frailty or self-consciousness. I wish you God's embrace, heavenly rest, and music that makes your heart sing. I hope that place surrounds you with the beautiful colors of fall that you have always loved, And memories of all of us that you have left behind that make you smile. May your heart and mind be at peace that our memories of you will always do the same. ~ Love, Heather 3/26/23

Your Beautiful Voice
The one that sang lullabies when I was a baby
Both scolded and comforted me when I was a hyperactive child
And tried to guide me as I became a rebellious teenager and know-it-all young adult
Your Beautiful Voice
The one that filled our home in PA with the sound of you singing your favorite songs
Shared your passion for music with students
And worshipped through it at St. Alphonsus in the church choir
Your Beautiful Voice
The one that always supported my love of art and animals
Encouraged our creativity and our interests
And made sacrifices for our many pursuits
Your Beautiful Voice
The one that cried out when your own mother died
Shared with me so matter of factly the traumas of your past
And sounded so sad on the phone the year you stayed in PA to SELL the house while we SET UP house in FL
Your Beautiful Voice
The one that genuinely appreciated a sense of humor
And had a laugh all its own that often found it couldn't stop
Sometimes even needing a trip to the bathroom!
Your Beautiful Voice
The one that always emphasized the importance of education
Declared it non-negotiable for us as girls
And proudly celebrated it when I graduated from law school
Your Beautiful Voice
The one that cheered on the Nittany Lions at football games
Then for us Werb girls at basketball softball and crew
And even later, rooted for me in pickleball
Your Beautiful Voice
The one that took on its own special tone when complaining about dad's latest project
And then a different one when conversing with our beloved dog Shane
And yet another when talking about the grandchildren
Your Beautiful Voice
The one that performed in Sweet Adeline's a cappella group
Sang a solo at our wedding
And even after 70 joined a church choir and travelled a karaoke circuit
Your Beautiful Voice
The one that supported my interest in the law, my love for Mark, and my devotion to Hope & John
And would offer advice when I asked questions about career, marriage and parenting
But also knew when, for the most part, to keep silent about career, marriage and parenting!
Your Beautiful Voice
The one that loved to share home design ideas, and plans for your next trip somewhere
And seemed happiest when talking about friends and State College
But even more so when actually talking FROM State College!
Your Beautiful Voice
The one that in our later years, joined me in commiserating about politics & the pains of getting old
And comparing the ups and downs and challenges of long-term marriages
But also sharing in the joy of living our second adulthoods exactly as we wished
Your Beautiful Voice
The one that 3 years ago started struggling with limitations
Then 3 months ago started leaving every sentence unfinished
Then only able to answer yes or no
Until finally that beautiful voice - went silent - forever.
The voice that was once so sweet, smart, supportive, steady, and strong. The one I will never forget because it's the voice of the one who loved me more than anyone else ever could or ever will.
I know that before you ever spoke to me with your beautiful voice, you loved me. I know that when I was just a thought, and before you even met me, you loved me. Because as a mother myself, I came to know that kind of love. So although your voice is now silent Mom, it will play on forever through my memories of you and through the love I have for my children. And then when I am gone, it will play on through them. That is your legacy, and I love you and I thank you - for your beautiful voice.
